

Liable for remaining silent: Broker found liable for failing to disclose relevant information which had an impact on the sale of his client's apartment

A broker was held liable for breach of contractual obligations to his client by failing to disclose relevant information regarding the potential sale of his client's apartment at a higher price.